

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method for providing paper stack level calibration in a reproduction apparatus. According to various aspects of the invention, methods are 5 provided for continuous feeding with a transition from one supply to another, and leaving a controlled number of sheets in the prior supply.